

Camera Shutter Angle

Shutter Angle

The angle of the opening in a rotary shutter disc, in degrees. A value of 360 degrees means that the whole frame duration is used as the exposure time (this yields maximum motion blur). A value of 180 degrees means half the frame duration will be exposed for rendering (thus reducing the motion blur).